.-.-.-.-.-.-.-.-.-.-

Learned Counsel for applicants, after arguing the matter at some length, do not press these revision applications and submit that they would file application U/S 265-K or 249-A CrPC, as the case may be, before the trial Court for relief as sought from this Court. However, they pray that the trial Court may be directed to decide the application within a short span of time, which learned Counsel for respondent and learned DPG have not opposed.

Accordingly, both these Criminal Revision Applications are dismissed as not pressed along with pending applications. However, as and when the application U/S 265-K (or 249-A CrPC) is filed by the applicants, it shall be decided within a period of one month without failure, in accordance with law, after granting an opportunity of hearing to all the parties concerned.
